

KSM Reading Spine

At KSM we seek to foster a love of reading and develop lifelong learners who choose to read. Reading for Pleasure is a key part of our reading strategy and one that every teacher understands is vital to ensure pupils leave KSM with a love of reading and books.

What does that look like at KSM?

The first thing you will notice is books! Lots of books! From a beautifully designed library which classes visit weekly to class libraries and topic libraries, at KSM we understand the importance of providing high quality, language rich, engaging books for all ages and interests. With support from the MOTO foundation, we are able to update and replenish our books, regularly introducing new fiction and non-fiction texts.

The second thing you will notice is teachers modelling a love of reading and all things book related. From our own staff room 'book swap' to reading displays showing teacher's favourite books, teachers model a reading for pleasure culture across the school through daily read aloud sessions, outdoor reading, book led assemblies and our developing reading spine of high quality texts.

How is our reading spine designed?

Reading forms the basis of our curriculum. Our curriculum has been designed around our reading spine where we use high quality texts as a stimulus for both English and curriculum writing. Our reading spine continues to evolve organically as we develop the use of both classic novels and more recently published texts. We have built a spine of over 100 books that we feel all children should have read by the time they leave primary school. These books range from traditional tales to graphic novels; they include poetry and rhyme alongside non-fiction and information texts. The diverse range of books enables pupils to be exposed to a wide range of language, vocabulary and linguistic patterns as well as exploring a variety of issues from climate change and global issues to habitats, culture and tolerance.

We believe that every child has the right to be an outstanding reader and that it is our responsibility to ensure reading is taught consistently and progressively throughout the school. We believe the children need the highest standards and expectations so they become confident readers across the whole curriculum.

As a school with mixed age classes, we have developed a two-year rolling cycle for our reading spine. This ensures pupils never repeat texts while still being exposed to and immersed in a wide range of high quality, engaging texts.
